पाठ How to use this booklet

This is the full thousand names of the Kakar Adi Kali Sahasranama, printed so it can be read away from a screen. The text is divided into ten sets of one hundred, and the sets are printed in the order they are recited.

Read one set a day and you finish the thousand in ten days. Read ten names a day and it lasts a hundred days. Neither is more correct than the other: the tradition values steadiness over volume, so pick a portion you will actually return to tomorrow.

One set	names 1–100	about ten minutes
Ten names	names 1–10	about a minute
Full text	names 1–1000	about ninety minutes

Pronunciation matters less than attention. If the Devanagari is unfamiliar, read the IAST line — it marks the long vowels and nasal endings that English spelling drops.

The one-line meanings under each name are commentary for study, not part of the recitation. Read them if they help, skip them if they interrupt.

The full text, searchable and in both themes, is at kakaradikalisahasranama.com.
